Here is a fine quality antique English early Victorian library table, constructed of solid mahogany, with two drawers, circa 1850, in excellent original condition. Featuring elements of the William IV period, the design and style of this table is transitional into the early Victorian period. Constructed from solid mahogany, it benefits from a lovely single-plank top (a sign of quality), with a thumb moulded edge, incorporating two working blind frieze drawers below. The drawers can be opened by pulling a recessed handle under the drawer bottom. The two drawers are constructed with butt-joints and solid oak drawer linings. The drawers run smoothly and close flush to the fra...
