Description

This piece features a hunter in wolfskin, situated on a stand adorned with oak leaves and acorns. It's a very rare, large porcelain sculpture, designed in the Art Nouveau style. Height: 39 cm Weight: 2016 grams Pattern: 4326 The sculpture originates from the late 19th century, with its mark on the bottom being used between 1897 and 1906. Condition: There is minimal chipping to the left ear of the wolf skin, which is only visible under magnification. There's also minor chipping on the garment above the waist, and a few minimal paint chips in certain areas. Despite these small flaws, the piece remains in overall excellent antique condition.
