Description

From the Circle of Richard Westall (1765-1836), an oil on canvas depicting a group of cave explorers holding a burning torch and clearly making a surprising discovery. It's a nicely painted early oil which tells a story. The painting came from the estate of the late Sir George Solti (1912-1997) whose main residence had been in London. Sir George Solti, original name Gyorgy Stern Solti was born in Budapest. He was a Hungarian-born British conductor who became conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra in 1969. This painting became available after the recent death of his wife Lady Valerie Solti. May be collected from our showroom or please contact us to discuss delivery options.
