Description

A pretty little clock with a very unusual dial. The 8 day duration, rectangular plated, gut fusee movement with an Anchor Recoil escapement. Behind a 10" diameter, flat painted iron dial which very unusually has a dark blue background with gilt writing. Having an outer, divided minute track with triangular hour marks and inner, Roman hour numerals. Above centre is signed "KILPIN St. Swithins Lane" and below centre is written "City" in Old English font, all in gold. The paired spade style hands are also gilded and the dial is behind a cast brass, hinged bezel with a sight ring and flat glass. The mahogany case has a convex turned dial surround and the back box has an access door to the right side and a curved and locking cockbeaded door to the curved bottom. The small size of this clock and the very rare dial makes it very attractive. Dimensions: 12 1/4" diameter dial surround x 6" deep. Condition: The movement is working well and keeping to time however, it is dirty and has been fitted with a hard wire to the fusee instead of a soft line therefore, should be overhauled. The dial has been historically conserved in areas of the blue base paint which has shed due t...
