Description

Late C19th Chinese export red lacquer altar table of early C18th Kangxi period design. Highly decorative Chinese polychrome red lacquer oblong altar or console table. The top decorated with a traditional mountainous landscape scene with pavilions. Stepped and pierced friezes with floral peony painted decoration and open fret-work to the sides. The edge of the top with a running key design. The uprights with traditional carved Chinese key design, the open ends with shaped inserts, joined by stretchers to the base. Of free-standing form with all-round lacquer and painted decoration. An exotic and atmospheric Chinese table of good scale and proportions, in as found, country-house, fresh-to-the-market unrestored condition, with some wear and losses to the lacquer decoration. Structurally strong and sound. * a Kangxi period black lacquer table of similar design is in the Chinese bedroom at Badminton House, Gloucestershire (see photograph above in situ) H 33" W 52" D 15" China c.1880
