Description

Technical Description A superb Murano Salviati glass perfume flask dating to the late 19th century. It has a cork stopper with the main body being speckled blue, red and white with specks of aventurine. Crimped edging. An exceptional piece from a private collection. Date & Origin Island of Murano, Italy, c1870-90. Condition No chips, cracks or restoration. The cork stopper fits perfectly and is of the correct age but its probably a replacement. It may have had a glass stopper but we cant find another example to compare, so we cant be sure. Either way its a very rare piece indeed. Dimensions Length: 11cm (without stopper) Width: 6.5cm .
