Description

We've not come across one of these before by Palda so we were delighted to have found this one. The design as you would expect is great and very indicative of this era. Anyone building up a Deco collection for their cocktail cabinet would love this piece and of course we're hitting that time of year where it should get some good use! It features thick heavy cut glass body with etched and enamelled designs across the whole piece. The handle, collar and strainer are silver plated and in lovely condition. The inside of the pitcher is a suspended glass tube which is used to keep the drink cool by holding ice. Very unusual piece and functional too, definitely won't disappoint. Great size if you want to use it rather than just keep as display. Enamel work is also in excellent condition, with just some surface scratches to the base. FREE UK mainland delivery
