Description

This is a very attractive 18th century English oak dresser. The design with the tall legs is what set this apart to me. It is large piece but because of the open legs rather than cupboard base it has a real elegance to it. As far as I can tell the whole piece is original with minor honest repairs but no major faults. There is a great patina to the oak and the colour is wonderful also. Attractive size and would make a great addition to a kitchen or dining room Height 196cm Width 203cm Depth 50cm
