Description

This is a superb set of 18th century oak drawers with a bold geometric design to them. English in origin and made very well. There is an usual drawer configuration which I love. There are two smaller drawers in the centre of the main body which look to be for candles as they have a secret lower section as well. Then there is 5 shallow drawers at the base which are an intriguing addition. It also has some large drawers making it ideal for use today. The design overall is stunning and will be a great addition to any home. The unusual feet give the whole piece a great stance and an almost elegant touch which works very well with the bold design. Overall condition is very good with no major marks or issues. There is slight movement when rock back and forth which is a flaw with its construction nothing more. It also is very minor and has no effect on the usability of the piece. Height 114cm Width 108cm Depth 52cm
