Description

This is a very smart Georgian oak occasional table. It has a tilt top which I believe is mahogany on a solid oak base. It is a good honest piece of furniture that has never been altered. The tilt top lock still fastens tight and opens easy. The top from certain sides is slightly out of centre but this looks to be the way it's always been. When viewed from the front it sits centrally so its a bit of a quirk which I love but takes nothing away from the piece. Overall condition is very good and clean patina.
