Description

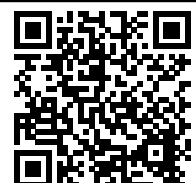

One of the best standard lamps we have had for sometime. The column of the lamp extends from 150cm to 200cm with an extremely heavy weighted base, which indicates that this would originally have been an oil lamp during the early Victorian period, and converted to electricity around 1900. Completely rewired with braided flex, PAT tested, excluding shade. This lamp exudes quality, and would have been part of the decor of one of the finest of homes.
