Description

This spirited early 20th-century oil painting by Swedish artist Justus Lundegård (1860-1924) depicts a buoyant summertime view with a farm, field hand and buildings. Lundegård's joy is palpable - standing alongside a winding track, he's consumed by nature's beauty. Seeking not to embellish or enliven, he captures the view with its imperfections intact. A crooked track winds its way through a rickety gate, drawing the eye towards the bright facade of a timber-framed farmhouse. While the trees lean and stretch their branches as if breaking into song. Note also Lundegård's clever use of colour - the furthest tree is partially rendered in dark blue, which brings greater contrast to the white building in the distance. Justus Lundegård was a pioneer who rallied against his formal academic education to pursue impressionism. This is a fine example of his animated use of colour, passion for light, and commitment to working outdoors. Signed in the lower right.
