Description

Edwardian walnut quartetto nest of tables This Edwardian walnut quartetto nest of tables were made circa 1910. A nest of 4 tables is rare, usually nests of coffee tables from this period were made as nests of 3. Each table has figured walnut tops and a ebony lip inside the cross banded edge that is there to prevent a glass or cup sliding off. The tables stand on ring turned legs with the curved stretchers to the rear. Nests of tables as so practical and great space savers as when not fully in use they can be sat by your chair as a wine/coffee table but when family and friends are visiting you have 4 occasional tables that you can place around your room for your guests to use. Imagine how much pleasure you will have ownership of these, their honey colour will fit in with your colour schemes also look fantastic and are bound to get many compliments form your visitors. 49.5cms wide 19 1/2ins 35cms deep 14ins 60cms high 23 1/2in All measurements are approximate.
