Description

Wonderful and a great size pair of William IV (circa 1840) mahogany console tables on column pedestals and sarcophagus style plinths, raised on castors. Very elegant pair of console tables for their size, being broad enough to hold large lamps or vases for example. Shown here with an example pair of gilt oval frames (awaiting mirror glass!) to give a sense of proportion. They stand well and have a wonderful rich late Georgian mahogany colour and finish. As a pair, they will look stunning either side of a large hall, landing space, as dining server side tables or as alcove tables. Priced as a pair, but may split if you can accommodate just one...please get in touch if so. Measuring: 31 3/4 inches or 81 cm high 53 3/4 inches or 136.5 cm wide 19 inches or 48.5 cm deep
