Description

Truly magnificent! In full, lustrous woollen pile, this fabulous rug was made by Afshar tribes in the Neiriz area of Kerman Province circa 1900-1910. The overall design of vases of flowers are depicted on a natural ivory field and surrounded by three borders containing stylised flowers and a continuous vine, symbolising the eternal cycle of life. Note in the close-up photos, the depiction of three human forms - possibly a man, his wife and child! All the beautiful vibrant colours are from natural dyes. This is an extremely beautiful and highly decorative rug and a great example of Afshar weaving in full pile. Size: 1.97m x 1.50m (6' 6" x 4' 11").
