Description

From a local estate, a beautiful and rarely found true set of twelve Derbyshire back stools each with relief carved horizontal splats set with open flower heads, scrolls and foliage. . The uprights with punched decoration and scrolled carved terminals. . Original throughout including the boarded seats which are set within a well turned and blocked underframe. The front stretchers bulb turned and the splats applied with drop finials. Peg jointed, heavy and sturdy. . The set comes with drop in seat pads, eight are early 19th century and hand embroidered and four have been later recovered in a plain blue velvet. The chairs sat around two tables in different rooms of the house but are one true set. The seat pads can easily be re-upholstered if required to match your decor. . The whole set has a consistently beautiful rich and warm colour. The seats, splats and arms have particularly good patination. The well turned front stretchers with a little natural wear from centuries of use and there are a few small repairs/restorations to some of the chairs but nothing structural or unusual. The chairs are in truly excellent condition for age with no movement in the joints or we...
