Description

This most impressive little table suitable for a lamp or as a jardiniere stand dates from the early 1800s and is in really nice condition. It has good colour and excellent graining. Please look at the picture of the top and even the most discerning person could not help but be impressed. The pedestal is turned in a barleytwist and is of course in solid rosewood. The platform base has very good detailing and everything sits on those really neat shaped feet with the light relief carving on each side of them.
