Description

A Minton white glazed centrepiece, 1870, impressed factory marks, year cypher and shape no. 1539. Modelled as a putto wearing drapery and holding a lyre, seated upon a nautilus shell on a rocky mound base moulded with reeds and shells. In generally good condition overall with no chips or restoration. The back of the putto's arm has a vertical crack, hairline crack to the bottom of the nautilus shell and a few small surface hairlines at the base (see detailed photographs).
