Description

A good example of a small Wellington Chest dating from the mid to late 19th Century. It was most likely originally used as a specimen or collectors chest and it is large enough to stand on the floor or could be used on a tabletop. It is an excellent quality piece with turned wooden knobs, dovetail joints and beautifully figured Yew Wood timbers. The chest has 5 drawers in total flanked by two wellington style pillars. The right hand one locks shut to secure the drawers and it comes with a working key. It stands on four small turned bun feet. It is in good original condition and is certainly a very usable piece. There are some minor signs of age and use and the cabinet has picked up some small knocks and scuffs over the years and a small chip to the back but no major damages. The drawers are generally clean and tidy inside and all open smoothly. It has been cleaned and gently polished and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photographs so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
