Description

A very good Georgian mahogany bureau from the late 18th century. Aside from the Victorian leather writing surface and some later parts to one or two swan neck handles this bureau is in very good original order for it's 250 years of age. The polished finish has been rejuvenated and now looks almost as it would in the day. Surprisingly it would have brought more money in the early 1980's and it is only a matter of time before people wake up to the beauty and quality of Georgian mahogany furniture. Need a home office? What better to use than a good work surface, five sizable drawers (all locks working with new keys) and numerous small drawers, compartments and a couple of hiding places! All cleaned and wax polished ready to use. Height to Worktop - 78cm = 30 1/4 inches
