Description

18th Century Primitive English Antique Dairy Cricket Table This is a beautiful Mid 18th century antique primitive dairy table, such an honest example that is a fabulous original colour. Standing on three ash legs that start off being round at the top then ending octagonal in shale at the foot. Joined by simple stretchers and this Georgian antique cricket table top is a single thick slab of English walnut that is deeply chamfered on the underside. A superb, early antique sculptural dairy table in excellent condition, a beauty.
