Description

This is a very rare and high quality survivor. A near original 18th century leather and Elm wingback armchair. The patina on this piece is to die for. The leather is very heavy and thick hide, there are just a few small areas of repair closest to where the arm joins the back but other than that I believe the leather is pretty much original. The chair is dated on the back 1747. The frame as a wonderful smoothness to it from years of use. A chair full of character and charm as well as being perfectly useable. The frame is also totally solid. Height 120cm Width 66cm Depth 78cm Depth of seat 53cm Height of seat 50cm
