Description

Antique oak cupboard dresser base Antique oak dresser bases are an item of furniture that fits into most homes, we sell them to very modern homes as well as a more classic interior. They sit in their place and just give the impression that they have been there for generations. This example was made in the late 18th century. Made of heavy oak, that would have been felled on a large estate that a farmers' cottage was situated. The oak dresser is of a good size with a cupboard door each end that gives access to the storage behind the central panel. The 3 drawers above the cupboards with the attractive brass fretted handles. It has a beautiful colour and patina, and the honourable scar of its life, adds to the dresser's personality. It is easy to forget that these were the centre of a home's daily life and an important part of the home, as they were the original kitchen cabinets to store all the mundane important crockery and cooking implements. Now this can be used in many places around your home, and will look wonderful, I doubt you will be able to run your fingers along the tactile surface. Imagine this in your home and how useful it will be, as well as being a focal poin...
