Description

This quality Antique Albertina chain features four strands of chain complete with a double-sided slider centrepiece, modelled in Silver. The bracelet links are made up of foxtail and rope twist links with an unusual twisted T-bar drop. The Albertina is fastened securely with a sturdy dog clip. An Albertina chain is the name given to a watch chain worn by women. These chains were popular during the Victorian era, along with Albert chains, which were worn by men. The Albertina chains were generally finer than the Albert chains, and often were multi-stranded, with charms and fobs. This chain would make the perfect bracelet, measuring 8.5" in length.
