Description

A Victorian period, set of 6, dining chairs, Circa 1860. This set of dining chairs features a concave rounded top rail with carved details. Similar slat. Over upholstered seat, covered in woollen weave, tartan-esque fabric, finished with antiqued brass trim. Raised on ring turned front legs and splayed rear legs. A good quality set of rosewood dining chairs, in good condition and ready to use. Dimensions: These chairs measure approximately 85 cm (33.5") tall, 43.5 cm (17") wide, and 49.5 cm (19.5") deep. The seat height is approximately 48 cm (19"). Condition: Please see the pictures for details of the items condition. - These chairs are in a good condition commensurate with their age, and are structurally sound and sturdy. There are some minor marks, blemishes and wear on the frames. No loose joints or obvious signs of repair. Other than couple of chairs with losses to the notches at the bottom of the back styles (uprights), there is no significant damage. The frames have good colour, polish and patina throughout. The upholstery is structurally reasonable. A couple of the chairs are little softer than the others. The fabric covers are good and quite clean. Very stu...
