Description

A fine example of an early 17thc James 1 period oak joyned coffer....it is decorated with punchwork, scratch carving and attractive nulling...I particularly like the wide "muntin", (the wide flattish piece of wood which holds the panels in place) always an early feature and the original hand made iron "butterfly" hinges....all the boards are originalwith a very good natural colour and patina it would add greatly to any collector of period English oak furniture. English. C1600-20.
