Description

An antique Mahal carpet dating from the early 20th century, with wonderful natural and vibrant dyes. The pale blues, greens and yellows give this antique carpet a joyful feel, the golden yellow border being a particular highlight, a rare border colour too. More often they would have used a dark blue dye for the border. Professionally cleaned and in original order it is ready to use on the floor. Not having a central medallion makes this an easy antique carpet to place in a variety of rooms. Woven around circa 1900, the colours have faded beautifully, these decorative carpets from Northern Persia are full of charm and suit country houses to London apartments. In general the order and condition is extremely good, some minimal areas of lower pile are apparent and could be improved upon by our restoration workshop if required. We love the lived in look of this antique piece though and with our strong underlay it allows it to be used every day for another 100 years! Please request a home visit to see this antique Mahal carpet in-situ, you can select a convenient day and time for us to visit your home from our website. Or please feel free to book in a visit to our barn sh...
