Description

A fabulous novelty Edwardian stamp box, modelled as a book and assayed at the collectable Chester office. This rare and unusual piece is mounted to the front with a hinged and sprung silver lid. The lid is engraved with the word 'STAMPS' in capital letters and also features book cover detailing. The body is of glass, which is beautifully moulded and cut into the shape of a book, including ribs to the spine and all edges being bevelled. With the lid held open, the interior reveals two stamp reservoirs which are curved for ease of stamp removal. A wonderful example, of real quality that would look as good on a desk as on a book shelf. A great gift idea and addition to any collection. Dimensions below.
