Description

Here is a really lovely example of a Victorian extending or telescopic library lamp in solid brass. Standing on three clawed Lions feet, the lamp is 50cm tall at it's shortest height, and 74cm when fully extended and - and of course anything in between. Its really unusual to be extendable as a table lamp (rather than a floor or standard lamp), and this makes it very versatile. I have had the lamp professionally rewired by an Antique lighting specialist and offer it for sale with the lamp shade (although I understand that a green and white striped shade might not be to everyone's taste!). This is just a modern shade that I bought to take the photographs, so it comes free of charge if you want it! I have left the lamp unpolished so that you may decide how you would like it to be presented - but as it's solid brass, it would polish up a treat if that's the look you're after. Please do not hesitate to let me know if I can provide any further information or photographs. I offer free postage across the UK, and am very happy to help with quotes for shipping abroad.
