Description

A most unusual early XX Century Mahogany Book Table. It is in fact supported by two slender turned tapering delicate columns on swept cabriole feet and joined by a turned stretcher. It is marked underneath with the original plaque for Heelas Ltd by appointment to the King - Complete House Furnishers Reading. The story of this renowned family business, started in the mid 19th C as a drapery business and evolved very much towards house furnishings after a couple of decades, can be found here <http://www.berkshirehistory.com/businesses/heelas.html> Small and light and extremely functional, having quite a generous capacity for its size. Ideal for small spaces or reading corners, to hold, for example, the books that you are currently reading.
