Description

French Kingwood and Ormolu Mounted Side Table. French Louis XV style kingwood and ormolu mounted side table. The shaped rectangular top, adorned with a gilt-metal border, is a canvas for the intricate details that define this piece. Below a breakfront frieze, painted porcelain plaques depicting winged cherubs and floral bouquets add a touch of romance, while ormolu female mask mounts and cabriole legs contribute to the overall grace and sophistication. This side table captures the essence of the Louis XV style, celebrated for its curves, asymmetry, and ornate details. The kingwood construction and gilt-metal border reflect the opulence associated with this iconic period. The breakfront frieze is inset with painted porcelain plaques, featuring delightful scenes of winged cherubs and intricate floral bouquets. These plaques are a nod to the artistic refinement of the Louis XV era. Ornate ormolu female mask mounts adorn the table, adding a touch of classical elegance. These mounts are crafted with meticulous detail, contributing to the overall visual richness of the piece. The table stands on cabriole legs, a characteristic feature of the Louis XV style, and terminates o...
