Description

Antique walnut drinks cabinet This 19thc. bow fronted pillar cupboard was made circa 1830. Constructed using the very attractive burr walnut. These are known as post-box cabinets as they are the shape of Victorian post-boxes. The cabinet is fitted one long door that opens to reveal full storage and shelves. To each side of the top of the door are fine delicate applied carvings. It can be used for other uses other than a drinks cabinet; it can be used for storing books or linen, or clothes. A pillar cupboard is a useful item as it will fit in the places where there are difficult spaces to fill, also providing good storage, as well as having the fantastic visual look. Imagine owning this fine attractive Antique walnut drinks cabinet and the pleasure it will give you, especially as you pour drinks as you entertain family and friends. 64cms wide 25ins 143.5cms high 56 1/2ins 39cms deep 15 1/2ins All Measurements are as accurate as possible.
