Description

This is a beautiful antique late Victorian satinwood Carlton House Desk, circa 1880 in date. This beautiful desk is made from satinwood, which has been crossbanded in tulip wood bordered with boxwood and ebony lines. It is superbly finished all round so it will look amazing in the centre of your study!! The curved superstructure with a brass baluster gallery rail, having a central enclosed cupboard, flanked to either side by three small drawers, a further enclosed cupboard to each side and a small drawer with curved hinged flap, having a pull out gold tooled black leather inset writing surface. This provides ample storage for all of your personal and business papers. It has a capacious central frieze drawer flanked by two short drawers to either side. It is raised on square tapering legs that terminate in spade feet with brass castors. It is fitted with the original brass locks, keys and brass drop handles. The craftsmanship that has gone into this desk is second to none, and it will soon become the centrepiece of your furniture collection. Condition: In excellent condition having been beautifully cleaned, French polished and waxed in our workshops, please...
