Description

For your consideration is this fabulously iconic looking Art Deco table lamp. The body of the lamp is actually a decanter that had a damaged neck and has been cleverly converted to a table lamp. We've added a shade which you can choose to use or not. It's completely re-wired, however it doesn't have English plug but European one so you'll need to change this or get a travel adaptor. The main body of the lamp is glass and it sits on a black lacquered plinth. The sides of the decanter also have polished brass embellishments, making it very unusual. Choice of two shades shown, only one is offered in this sale so let us know your preference. FREE UK mainland delivery
