Description

A French bijouterie cabinet in the style of Louis XVI that dates to around 1920. It is constructed from walnut with a birds eye walnut top frame with four heavy ormolu corner mounts and brass studding. It has glass side panels framed with brass panelling...the glass on the back panel has a small hairline cracksee photo. It stands on cabriole legs with a heavy carved decoration on the outside of the legs, smaller mounts on the inside with ormolu strips running down to meet carved mounts on its' feet. The cabinet has been lined with a pink buttoned back cushion with small pearl inserts on the inside. A very elegant cabinet that could be used to display a collection of medals, watches, jewellery etc and would grace a period or contemporary setting.
