Description

Very beautiful 14ct gold pre-revolutionary bracelet, made by Nikolai Strulev (who worked in Moscow between 1883-1908). The finely made bracelet is in perfect condition and a good weight, the links look solid but may be hollow but if they are there are no dents or solder marks, it appears to have been barely worn, so in very good antique condition. It is finely made with a lovely design and is 19cms long, 23gs and 11mm wide it has a safety chain which has a hook which un-fastens so a charm can be added if desired.
