Description

19th Century Satinwood Display Cabinet with Ormolu Mounts & Porcelain Plaques 19th Century Satinwood and Amaranth Display Cabinet. Meticulously crafted in the style of Louis XVI, this cabinet boasts intricate ormolu mounts and Sevres porcelain plaques, epitomizing the grace and opulence of the period. The cabinet is fashioned from the luxurious combination of satinwood and amaranth, showcasing a harmonious blend of light and dark tones. The wood's natural grains add depth and character to the piece. Adorning the cabinet are meticulously crafted ormolu mounts. From delicate foliate designs to ornate embellishments, each mount contributes to the overall elegance, showcasing the mastery of Louis XVI-style craftsmanship. Open the glazed door to reveal a velour-lined interior, providing a sumptuous backdrop for displaying your cherished items. Whether it's fine china, collectibles, or objets d'art, this cabinet is designed to showcase your treasures with grace. The lower section features a panel door, offering discreet storage space for items that may not be on display. This thoughtful design ensures both functionality and aesthetic continuity.
