Description

Circa 1870. Victorian burr-walnut, ormolu and inlaid credenza with figured top and moulded edge. At each end there is two curved doors, in stylish Rococo scotching with curved glass ormolu moulding as the beading. Either side of the doors are two pilasters, with inlay on the top and ormolu corbels on the top and the base. The central door is inlaid with similar 2 pilasters either side. Beneath the door there is a small ogee moulding which runs around and follows the form of the credenza, it stands on an enclosed plinth.
