Description

An interesting barograph contained in a walnut glazed case. This fine instrument is offered in complete working condition, together with ink bottle and charts, which are contained in a pull out drawer in the base. Most of these Barographs were for industrial or scientific use, and are in very simple, drab oak cases. This instrument is not only in first class condition, but is in a walnut case with bevelled edges, which in its day would incur more costly craftsmanship and would only have been made for the best of homes.
