Description

A large and stunning early 19th-century pale elm farmhouse table that is sure to captivate with its timeless beauty. This remarkable table features a four-plank figured top, showcasing the exquisite craftsmanship of the era. The stunning patination and colour of the table add to its allure, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere. The pale elm wood of this farmhouse table boasts a beautiful figured grain, enhancing its visual appeal. The table stands solidly with the support of end and centre stretchers, ensuring its stability and durability for years to come. Additionally, this table offers the convenience of two large drawers at each end, providing ample storage space. With plenty of legroom, this farmhouse table offers comfort and functionality. To complete the set, two wonderful figured elm benches are included perfectly matching the table's charm and elegance. Together they create an inviting and harmonious dining area that is perfect for gathering with family and friends.
