Description

A late 17th Century or early 18th Century portrait, oil on copper and possibly of the Virgin Mary. This is not certain as there is no halo or the usual hands joined in prayer. It is in a later 19th century frame which is beautifully carved and enhanced with a small amount of gilding, framing the portrait well. It is possible the painting was once framed under glass (often the case with paintings on copper) as the condition is very good. It is a lovely piece with much atmosphere. The painting itself measures 25.5cm long and 20.5cm wide. We can deliver free of charge in UK mainland and can calculate the cost for international delivery.
