Description

A Beautiful Pair of William IV Mahogany Swan Neck Library Armchairs Circa 1835. These handsome period armchairs of tub chair design are gently angled for comfort. Having attractive swan neck detail to the armrest supports. The front legs are topped with bulls-eye motif and are of tapered leaf form which terminate in brass castors. The chairs have wonderful flowing organic lines that are easy on the eye. They have been traditionally and professionally reupholstered. The fabric is a cotton/linen mix by Warner House (Chartwell Indigo) and finished with a classic double piping. Condition wise the chairs are structurally sound and solid. They have old chips and veneer loss but we feel this is commensurate with age. They are comfortable, functional, handsome looking chairs. Seat height is 48cm.
