Description

A rustic antique Mahal carpet woven around 1890-1900, over 120 years old, beautifully hand-woven with terracotta, orange rust tones, ivory medallions and subtle green and blue dyes. A deep indigo blue border frames this colour palette so well, some scattered areas of wear, but structurally secure and in original condition. A classic country house looking carpet, with an unusual all over large scale design. A beautiful carpet for a drawing room, bedroom, study or entrance hall for example, as antique carpets can be used anywhere in a home. We supply anti-slip underlay with all of our carpets and rugs, to aid their strength on the floor and it also helps preserve the carpet too. As wear is generally caused by a carpet moving around on a floor with poor or no underlay. Contact us to request a home visit, we have visited customers in their own homes for over 30 years. We feel it is vital to view carpets and rugs at home, so you can make the ideal choice, trying various options in a room. This is a professional and free service we have offered since 1990, we love helping make your home look even better! You can book in a visit to our barn showroom too, we have over 100...
