Description

Set of 3 late C18th / early C19th carved statuary white marble panels of classical muses . Interesting and decorative set of three relief carved marble rectangular panels depicting classical Greek or Roman muses or perhaps goddesses. One figure with a classical harp or lyre , probably portraying the Greek god Apollo. Possibly conceived as elements for a fire surround or decorative panels for the interior of a neo-classical garden temple or similar classically-inspired scheme. Stepped integral bases allowing the panels to balance free-standing and upright. In excellent condition with a polished surface showing minimal wear . One panel having had an historic repair to one corner . H 9" W 5" D 3" England c.1800
