Description

For your consideration is this fabulously stylish 1930's Art Deco cocktail cabinet. This dry bar dates to the 1930's and has all the bells and whistles you want from a cocktail cabinet. The upper interior has a mirrored base and mirrored backing. There is a sectional interior to a central drawer, ideal for napkins and cocktail paraphernalia. There is an interior light to the upper section not currently wired up. Original cocktail lemon squeezer, cocktail sticks that are so often missing. The lower section of the cabinet opens to reveal a very generously sized shelving space for glasses and bottles. This area will take full size liquor bottles. The cabinet itself is veneered in the most glorious walnut with original two tone bakelite handles finish this piece to perfection, all raised on an ebonised plinth. We've had the whole cabinet restored and so comes to you in great condition. There is some foxing to the mirroring. Overall size of this cabinet is also very appealing, large enough to house all your requirements but not so big and rambling to take over a room. Comes with working key to the storage bottle area.
