Description

Stunning English Mediaeval Early Antique Oak Bench Seat A superb early English antique oak bench seat, made from a pair of Mediaeval early antique oak pew ends, re-purposed in 1860 into an antique seat by W.Chaston Norwich. The bench is signed and dated by him. The mediaeval antique bench ends are highly decorative and featured hand carved finial tops with punch mark decorations. Beautifully carved, in super condition and the bench is a lovely pale bone colour. Perfect for an entrance, hallway or boot room, no too deep, so ideal for people walking past. Excellent dining height too. In very good solid condition. English, the ends date to around the 12th Century. Dimensions Height: 129cm (51.19") Width: 128cm (50.79") Depth: 36cm (14.29")
