Description

An Excellent George II Oak Dresser base of a fabulous untouched colour and patina. With a boldly shaped apron, three well shaped cabriole legs to the front and square legs to the back. The drawer fronts finished with a lip mould, this feature was made fashionable in the early Georgian period. Four drawer examples are a lot rarer than the more common three drawer version. The Dresser is in remarkably original condition, retaining all original brassware and oak drawer linings. Two ear pieces replaced. Circa 1740
