Description

An Art Cocktail Shaker by Daum. A rare pattern, the thick opaque glass with acid etched circles throughout the surface. Each circle with a textured surface, in contrast with the smoothness of the opaque glass. The centre of each circle decorated in white and gold enamel. The chrome collar with a dent and some wear to the chrome, as photographed and reflected in the price. The chrome to the lid and stopper in good condition. No damage to the glass. Signed 'Daum Nancy' just above the rim of the base. Daum is a decorative glass factory based in Nancy, France. Founded in 1878 by Jean Daum with his two sons, Auguste and Antonin continuing the company's growth. During the Universal Exhibition of 1900 Daum was awarded a 'Grand Prix' medal. Daum glass became more complex and decorative, with acid etching, carving, enamelling and engraving on a single piece of glass, producing creative glass masterpieces, still highly regarded and sought after today. Overall height: 23cm Height to chrome rim: 19cm Diameter: 9cm
