Description

Magnificent! Fabulous rich madder-red with four vertical rows of four 'kilim guls' - more often found on the flatweave chuvals. This is therefore a rarer type than the flatweave chuvals and made by Yomut Turkmen around 1870-1880. Chuvals or storage-bags were usually made in pairs and carried clothing and other personal belongings on the flanks of the camels during migrations. This chuval lost its flatwoven back a long time ago as well as the outer 'birds-heads' border on the sides only, where new selvages have been added. Otherwise it is in excellent pile throughout. This beautiful piece needs to be seen to appreciate the wonderful colour of madder-red which photos often don't do any justice to! Size: 1.07m x 0.79m (3' 6" x 2' 7").
