Description

We are delighted to offer this marvellous pair of antique gold and silver cufflinks with a wonderful combined design of a rose gold panel and silver-blue sunburst guilloche enamel. The rose gold portion features a modest yet elegant reeded stripe design and was made in Birmingham in 1863. A later converted/modified silver and gold chain connects each side to a wonderful sterling silver portion which is of a slightly later period c.1888-1925 by David Andersen. The striking guilloche pattern combined with the white bezel/piping on the edge makes for a highly distinguished and stylish choice for the discerning collector of antiques and sartorial accoutrements. The unusual combination of rose gold and blue enamel creates a striking contrast that is wonderful and presents a uniqueness only visible when your cuff is turned and perhaps only noticeable to the keen-eyed. Furthermore, depending on the occasion and your feeling on the day, it could be worn in reverse for a completely different and understated appearance, thus having two different cufflinks in one design. Overall, a unique and superb accoutrement for those who wish to make a subtle yet sophisticated ...
